Baha'i Education for Children: Book 1

I breastfeed my baby in a baby sling and teach children class! How do we NOT focus on inspiring our kids to think big, to be kind, to be loving, to be caring, and to be daring? But her website is very interesting. Therefore it is in early childhood that a firm foundation must be laid. Hospitality constitutes a key ingredient of family life.

The Education of Children

There is a modest selection of literary works dealing with family life.

The acre of wooded land with a big open area and swing set is the ideal location for large motor cooperative games and free time fellowship. Hellaby, 16 have remarked that the Bahá'í teachings place responsibility for the early, informal training of children in the hands of the mother, while the father must see to the later, formal aspects of their education.

Brilliant Stars Children's Class

Essential to hospitality is the ability to welcome people of diverse background and offering food and shelter. Seeing the positive noble virtues that lay latent in everyone of us.

Themes

For Bahá'í communities there are two kinds of lone-parent families. Patience would sometimes wear thin.

Using Brilliant Star in Children's Classes

The feedback has been great so far. Inevitably, changes no less profound must take place in the aims and methods of education.
