British Empire

Andrews Hall, Norwich in 1788. Eminent historian Paul Strathern opens the story of Empire with the Akkadian civilization, which ruled over a vast expanse of the region of ancient Mesopotamia, then turns to the immense Roman Empire, where we trace back our Western and Eastern roots. The first permanent British settlement on the continent was made at James Island in the in 1661.

The Victorian empire and Britain's maritime world, 1837

The oceans and their shores, rather than the mysterious interiors of continents, certainly dominated the English perception of the transoceanic world in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, climaxing in the fascination with the Pacific in the age of Captain Cook, and continuing into the nineteenth century, with Franklin in the Arctic and Ross in the Antarctic. Towns developed their own specialist concert venues - from the Holywell Music Room above in Oxford in 1742, and St.
