Stafford Hospital scandal

And of course there is a difference between direct provision of care and provision of management support. In reality, the provision of NHS services by private companies long precedes this legislation, but there are concerns that the new role of the healthcare regulator 'Monitor' could lead to increased use of private-sector competition, balancing care options between private companies, charities, and NHS organisations. There were 542,435 emergency hospital admissions in England in October 2018, 5.
