The Purpose of Learning Research in Criminal Justice

Furthermore, when Black male offenders did receive a non-government sponsored departure or variance, they received sentences 16. Similar to national surveys of bullying, the authors found that boys were more likely than girls to be involved as aggressors, victims, and victim-aggressors for verbal aggression, physical aggression, threats, and damage to property. Seven states—New Jersey, Alaska, New York, Vermont, Connecticut, California, and Michigan—have achieved reductions of more than twenty percent since their peak population years.

The Purpose of Learning Research in Criminal Justice

The differences in sentence length decreased slightly during the five-year period after the 2012 Booker Report for most offenders. The demonstration that sentence severity, specifically, the possibility of a death sentence, has a qualitatively different effect on verdicts for ostensibly Black and White defendants is novel. Theory devoid of method - explanation without accurate supportive data - is just as much ritualistic dead end as method devoid of theory.
