There is no valid reason to treat government student loans different from private student loans.

Back to school... by the numbers

PhDs and other doctorates are required for many professions such as university professor, doctor, or high-level administration jobs in government, health care, and education. Do you intend to apply for membership with your regulatory body...? While two in three of those 27 years of age or older indicate that they definitely will apply, less than half of those 23 or younger say the same thing. In this arrangement, students are expected to gain general and foundational knowledge over their first one or two years, and then specialize in a concentration called a major.

Postsecondary Success

About nine in 10 say they definitely 60 per cent or probably 30 per cent will. About six in 10 report using at least one on-campus resource, most commonly using the student career services at their post-secondary 42 per cent. These programs may comprise approximately two to three semesters of full-time study.
