Carl Fredrik HILL (1849

Despite severe opposition from his father, he studied landscape painting at the Konstakademi in Stockholm 1871-2, under Johan Edvard Bergh and Per Daniel Holm 1835-1903. På målningens nedre högra hörn har framträtt rester av en annan signatur. Många är de konstnärer som låtit sig inspireras av detta myller av infall och denna sanslösa fantasi som ständigt letade sig till det mentala gränslandets sista utpost.

Carl Fredrik Hill var utan tvivel en av Sveriges mest mångfacetterade konstnärer. He was inspired by french painter Jean-Baptiste Camille Corot 1796 — 1875. It has not been possible to obtain the earlier painting, which probably dates from the early 1900s.

He also frequently copied Dutch Old Masters, particularly Jacob van Ruisdael. I brought some of the collection and now some of the best posters from the collection is up for sale. But genealogists also need to see the original records from a single source.

In a similar way, this exhibition brings together artists who share an irreverent attitude toward the boundaries of the materials and genres in which they work.
