He was loved by all those that came into contact with him. He would fulfil the right of every single person; the only right he would ignore was his own.

Sharh al

He never fell short in striving to benefit people. He wrote many books, mostly on Fiqh. He can be described as follows: هم أقوام غنوا في المحبة من صغرهم وعاشوا في مخافت و غابوا في فكرهم They are people who were nourished with love from their infancy They lived in fear of their Lord and were absorbed in reflection Whenever he was wrongly treated he responded in the best of ways.

Habib Abd al

As Allah says: Repel evil with that which is better.

qadr Allahu wa maa shaa fa'al

Became a Hadith scholar, but also developed an interest in Hanafi Fiqh. He visited North Yemen and returned to visit Hadramawt after the unification of North and South Yemen, but did not resettle there. About the Author: A Hanafi Jurist, born in Taha that's where Tahawi came from, a town in Upper Egypt.

Sharh al

Towards the end of his life, illness confined him to his house but did not prevent him from receiving numerous visitors.

Imām Abū Ja'far al

Who was Habib Abd al

If the slave uses his limbs in the service of his Lord, Allah will protect him from the Devil: Truly you Iblis have no power over My slaves.

qadr Allahu wa maa shaa fa'al

Then he who was an enemy to you will be like an intimate friend.
