With the benefit of hindsight, the uneven, even opposing motives behind the developing relationship between the visitors and their hosts is instructive when examining the Australian-American relationship and alliance in the latter half of the 20 th century and beyond. Critics of the alliance often assume that downgrading or breaking the alliance would result only in benefits with little or no political costs to pay. If these instances have been negatives for Australia, they could be said to have been the result of Australia reading too much into the alliance in a dangerous tendency to elevate expectation, hope and even wishful thinking to the status of policy.

ANZUS After Fifty Years

In 1980 Binaisa attempted to strip Oyite-Ojok of his post as Chief of Staff of the UNLA. Prime Minister Holt's 'All the way with LBJ' and Prime Minister Gorton's White House dinner speech promising that 'wherever the United States is resisting aggression.

The more such societal influences present within the military culture, the smaller the attitudinal differences between the two worlds and the greater the chance of civilians maintaining control over the military. Despite the minimal resistance from Tanzanian forces, Ugandan troops advanced with caution. Australia is also part of a quadripartite arrangement known as ABCA America, Britain, Canada and Australia which aims to 'achieve agreed levels of standardisation necessary for two or more ABCA armies to cooperate effectively together within a coalition.

Civil

Since the 1970s self-reliance has been a key element in Australian declaratory security policy.
