Elrod, 49 years old when he died in 1975, is perhaps remembered today more because of his John Lautner designed house in the desert at Palm Springs. Excellent introduction to this rewarding subject, with well informed text by the author, complemented by a good selection of black and white illustrations. These were recorded flat and then also equalized with Turnover: 375.

Biedermeier Style (1815)

Pearse was among the first to bring Cape architecture to a wide audience in a scholarly way. Lutyens can be a bit grand and austere, though never forbidding, and in these understated rooms he is at his most intimate. I turned the page expecting more of the groovy Hicksian mode and it was a surprise to see that drawing room, beautiful though it is.
