Some thoughts on Barbara Herrnstein Smith's Contingencies of Value

We sketched Richards' s theory of value, and linked his theory of value with his theory of communication, using the concept of choice. We will sometimes personally move value as in it could become greater when a teacher moves her to lose relations responsibilities being a teacher with the expanded ethical responsibility in a small way to the children they teach while the child in ones care during this time there is a temporary axiological expansion that lasts mainly during teaching only but during that time the expanded cercal of care and caregiver responsibility, are ethically added to the teachers lose relations category while they are at school.

Difference Between Auditing and Investigation (with Comparison Chart)

In categorial intuition a subject becomes conscious of an articulated state of affairs as the object of her intention. Only factual judgments may be employed as well as the hypotheses required to explain, classify or connect them.

Understanding philosophy of research

The experience problem: An adequate theory about ethics must account for the phenomenology of moral experience.

What is axiology?

Is the problem with value is that humans are nearly inseparable from value? We are spiritual as well as physical beings. This line of re- search shares two points of potential conjunction with Richards. Surely ordinary people have the concept of reliability and could plausibly draw on this concept as they evaluate whether someone knows.
