If you have a passion for conservation, then this helps to drive you forwards and find internships and placements which can set you off on your career. Are you unsure whether you can ever compete? Putting a value on the natural world is an effective way to influence business leaders and politicians and has become a fast-growing field within conservation. As an Equal Opportunity Employer, our family of properties does not discriminate in hiring or terms and conditions because of an individual's race, creed, color, gender, age, sexual orientation, disability or national origin.

Exacerbating the dismal job market is this trend of graduates becoming stuck in full-time unpaid internships or long-term volunteering. Instead, your focus is on keeping their habitat safe for them and safe for the humans living there. Still, conservationists — some of them professors, some young people who have spent months to years looking for work, and some who gave up altogether on conservation — all agree that jobs are often few and far between.

15 Key Conservation Jobs: Ultimate Guide for Conservation Job Seekers

This could lower salary costs and create on-the-ground conservation champions who stay put. The ocean knows no bounds and nor should you! They may also need to perform data entry, make phone calls to local conservationists and research current conservation trends in the area.

You may not need to take the same route depending on that choice. Marine biologists might specialise in anything from marine food chains or fish behaviour to how marine ecosystems are impacted by human activities. Often self-employed and freelance, there is a growing opportunity for Freelance Photographers, Photo-journalists, Film-makers, Editors and Producers.
