In addition, statutes that require a foreign insurance company to maintain reserves computed by a specific percentage of premiums including membership fees received in all states, or to consent to direct actions filed against it by persons injured in the host state, are valid. Thus, a statute may make an initial rail carrier, or the connecting or delivering carrier, liable to the shipper for the nondelivery of goods which results from the fault of another, as long as the carrier has a subrogated right to proceed against the carrier at fault.

Clearing the Dead by Peter E. Hodgkinson

Mohawk Global Logistics described some of the issues that arise when a marine terminal operator requires a dual move to return an empty container: When winding down peak season, there are typically more empty containers being returned than full containers available to pick up, so single empty returns are more commonly needed, and without inbound loads, dual moves are hard to effect.
