Conciliation Ethics in the Qur'an

He had been a Sufi disciple of Sayyid Burhān al-Dīn together with Mawlānā.

Conciliation Ethics in the Qur'an

Not all of human beings bow to God. Long after he had won the inward and greater struggle, he had to continue with the lesser struggle.

Maulana Rumi

Note that in Islam Satan is the ape of the Prophets, not of God: all things in existence, even the negative and dispersive tendencies, come under the sway of the Divine Unity. Because Abū Yazīd arrived near to God, viewed himself as full, and did not look for more.

Fasad

This term commonly refers to the most outward and obvious kind of struggle, the war against the unbelievers on the field of battle. Man 20 1 : 90 —114.
