Clubshell Pleurobema clava and northern riffleshell Epioblasma torulosa rangiana recovery plan. These surveys have confirmed the existence of a large population in the Grand River and a smaller, yet apparently reproducing, population in the Ausable River and St Clair delta.

Reports and Forms — The River Project

The final big hitter came in the form of a handsome hunk of black cod, marinated in miso paste and grilled until beautifully browned. Freshets from Himalayan snowmelt created treacherous seasonal currents.
