Geriatric Psychiatry

A system for recertification, performance in practice, self-assessment and lifelong learning in psychiatry. The title of both the conference and the book seem to be somewhat of a misnomer, as only 13 of the 24 presentations could really be considered to fall in the realm of clinical chemistry.

Geriatric neurology : selected topics

It recognizes that integration of care is vital to the well-being of geriatric patients. .

Geriatric Psychiatry

The council accomplishes its goals by initiatives related to education, research, and clinical care in geriatric psychiatry. Contents related to Geriatric Psychiatry. May be very minimal identifying marks on the inside cover.

Metabolic Changes in Aging; III, Degenerative Changes in Aging; IV, Experimental Approaches to Aging Research; and V, Clinical Chemistry Problems in Health and Medical Care of the Elderly.

Very minimal wear and tear. This does not deter from the quality or value of the book, however, as the presentations not directly related to clinical chemistry are as interesting and important as those directly relating to the title, if not more so.

Geriatric Psychiatry

Beckman Conference on the Clinical Chemistry of Aging, which was held in October 1979. Geriatric psychiatry emphasizes the biological and psychological aspects of normal aging, the psychiatric effect of acute and chronic physical illness, and the biological and psychosocial aspects of the pathology of primary psychiatric disturbances of older age. Recognizes an early-career geriatric psychiatrist who has made noteworthy contributions to geriatric psychiatry through excellence in research, teaching, clinical practice, and community service.

Book Reviews *, Journal of American Geriatrics Society

The book is divided into five parts: I, Normal Aging and Senescence; II,
