Thidwick the Big-Hearted Moose by Dr. I want to be that kind of writer in the sense that yes, you would feel, smell and see the colours of Istanbul, but also you must recognise that all human beings are the same everywhere in some sense, but the cultures are different, so they behave differently. They have little experience besides their Parisian world.

Gee, Maurice [WorldCat Identities]

The few inhabitants of Twenty-Mile survive because they provide necessities and entertainment to the miners every weekend. In another poem the miserable spectacle of man marching mournfully to the grave is poignantly struck : With aching hands and bleeding feet We dig deep, lay stone on stone We bear the burden and the heat Of the long day, and wish it were done.
