In particular, the review considers how more recent research calls into question previously accepted theory that partner abuse is nearly always repeated and gets worse. Firstly, the top 50, 100 and 500 most harmful perpetrators from 2010 will be identified and their harm scores tracked across the subsequent 5 years of the dataset. The fourth scheme trailed by Thames Valley Police is novel in that it utilises current legal frameworks that are nationally endorsed, has lower administration costs than deferred prosecution schemes and current polices, constitutes a voluntary mechanism for attendance, and offers the potential for persons found in possession of drugs to be subject to multiple referrals.
