Kuraka rebellions were made since the beginning of the Spanish colonial rule, kurakas from different backgrounds and places of the Andes led uprisings on multiple occasions, being the Tupac Amaru II rebellion, which came after 250 years of colonial rule, the largest of them and the major rebellion in the history of Spain's American empire, nevertheless kuraka revolts would continue years and decades after Tupac Amaru II's uprising such as the uprising or the insurrection made during the South American Wars of Independence.
