Catalysis and Automotive Pollution Control II

However, up to now, the pyro-metallurgical circuits seem to be the most efficient processes as they are the final outlet for more than 75 % of the spent automotive catalysts available on the market. If your order has not yet been shipped you will need to send Dymocks Online an email advising the error and requesting a change in details.

Catalysis and Automotive Pollution Control II

By examining the results presented in figure 5 it can be seen that the sum of aldehyde emissions is lower for fuels with a short distillation curve like DI and D2. The Commission proposal, being even more stringent than the above values, will require added optimization of the present state of the art technology i.
