Rome's 10 Must

Although it was August, snow did fall on the Esquiline hill the next morning, so here the great basilica was built. This originated from the Spanish Embassy being as the foot of the steps, so naturally, the name extended over. Aqueduct of Segovia Probably built around 50 AD, the Aqueduct of Segovia is one of the best-preserved Roman monuments on the Iberian Peninsula.

Victor Emmanuel II Monument

At its various levels are prison cells, a large collection of weapons, and splendidly decorated papal apartments covered in Renaissance frescoes.

The Trevi Fountain is based on three architectural elements: a facade of travertine mineral stone ; statues of Carrara marble; a cliff also in travertine.

Trevi Fountain

Originally it was constructed with an ascending ramp encircling its sides, for oxen to bring cartloads of wood to keep the light fueled at night. The original project belongs to the architect Nicola Salvi, who has managed to combine in a manner almost perfect two elements — the classicism and the sparkling baroque.
