Inspired by relational ideas of power, the analysis enhances our understanding of the factors that were decisive for social interaction in that period. It explores how the development of Khoqand as a regional power and its involvement with the khoja-cause impacted on Qing policy towards Xinjiang Eastern Turkestan and the consolidation of the north-western frontier. The reader will be acquainted with places like Nūr, Shahr-i Sabz, Tirmidh, Hisār and other areas, which, having been dominated by competing military, religious and economic networks, remained partly outside the sphere of Tuqay-Timurid and later on Manghit authority.
