for them are reaching out to the Alliance for help during this crisis—knowing that we will be here to advocate for them, as we always have. Responses will be gathered to feed into high-level consultations and help build regional reports and a Global Charter that will be brought to decision-makers to inform environmental policy.

The Convention on the Rights of the Child: The children's version

Rest, play, culture, arts Every child has the right to rest, relax, play and to take part in cultural and creative activities. The earlier in life and the less time in the sensory-depriving environment, the more robust the recovery.

Parents make the difference: findings from a randomized impact evaluation of a parenting program in rural Liberia. Our young clients and the families who step up lives. And the steepest segments of the pictured curves are in the range 20-45 hours, which suggests — as one would naturally expect — that it is most difficult for a child to attend school when approaching full-time work.

Children's rights

Consensus on defining children's rights has become clearer in the last fifty years. They imply the necessity to protect them. The government should help families and children who cannot afford this.

Children's rights

It was set up to promote full implementation and compliance with the Convention on the Rights of the Child, and to ensure that child rights were given priority during the UN General Assembly Special Session on Children and its Preparatory process. Specifically in the context of education, child labor is often linked to poor educational outcomes.

UN Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC)

Child maltreatment is common and takes many forms.

What are children's rights?

The right to a healthy environment calls for recognition of exactly this: that our environment should be safe, clean, healthy, and sustainable. There is sufficient evidence of the harm caused to the Earth and humankind by man — made climate change.
