A Creation that groans, living on Death. So spoke the voice from the Furnaces, descending into Non-Entity To Govern the Evil by Good: and States abolish Systems. In contrast, in copy E, those rays are black lines drawn on the paper not the copper plate across a sky of white and pale gray.

O Lord descend and save! The labourer of ages in the Valleys of Despair! So sang the Spectre Sons of Albion round Luvahs Stone of Trial: Mocking and deriding at the writhings of their Victim on Salisbury: Drinking his Emanation in intoxicating bliss rejoicing in Giant dance; For a Spectre has no Emanation but what he imbibes from deceiving A Victim! Abraham, Moses, Solomon, Paul, Constantine, Charlemaine, Luther. This one is late-stage stuff.

Jerusalem

This is a poem of incomparable complexity and opacity, but among the finest of Blake's prophetic works. This is Blake after all.

Bruce Charlton's Notions: Jerusalem the Emanation of the Giant Albion?

If you think you'd like reading something that's a cross between the old testament and Revelation, written in King James, then you would probably really like this book. Blake: An Illustrated Quarterly - Terence Allan Hoagwood A triumph.

It is a complex and powerful work, full of dramatic imagery and sublime poetry. Sexual contentions obstruct Los' work and Vala thrusts her wrath cup upon Jerusalem who is devoured by the dragon to rise again. Thy Sons are lovelier than Egypt or Assyria; wherefore Dost thou blacken their beauty by a Secluded place of rest.
