This footage was broadcast, and the antagonism between yōkai and humans intensifies. !? From the ML to the forum and now to the blog version, here's hoping that this space will be a trusted source of information for all J-ent fanatics and a platform where we can come together and share our thoughts.

Sengo, le Japon après la guerre

Another story of a woman who sacrifices herself so that the man she loves — a kabuki actor — can achieve professional fulfillment, it is as affecting as any film Mizoguchi made, but the emotional complexities which give The Straits of Love and Hate, Five Women Around Utamaro 1946 or A Woman of Rumour 1954 , amongst others, their enduring fascination, are less visible.

Sengo, le Japon après la guerre

The greater breadth and perspective of these late films has led some critics to consider them as displaying a relative conservatism in comparison to the visible anger and commitment of Sisters of Gion and My Love Has Been Burning. When Kitarō and the others investigate after sensing powerful yōkai activity, they discover Mana trapped in a mirror! The 1960s and 1970s saw him in many contemporary roles.
