

Letters from India

Century - Letters on India : Callcott, Maria, Lady, 1785

Description: -

-
Body, Human -- Juvenile literature
Human physiology -- Juvenile literature
Newman, Barnett, -- 1905-1970.
India -- History -- 20th century.
India -- History -- 19th century.
India -- Social life and customs. Letters from India

-
Century lives & letters

Century lines and letters series Letters from India

Notes: Originally published: Edinburgh : Blackwood, 1911.

This edition was published in 1984

Filesize: 14.103 MB

Tags: #A #COVID

International Letter

It was a continuation of a journey begun decades before—a journey that can be traced in her words as well as in her art, and that startles us as much now as it must then have startled her. I always rather expect to hear that the 'Liverpool,' by which we sent our letters from the Cape, went down at sea. As to the tropical skies, they are, as old Rapid says, 'a shame to be seen' — miserable drab-coloured creatures, with a dirty yellow look towards sunset; and as for thunder and lightning, I should be ashamed if I could not make a much better storm out of a sheet of tin and a tallow candle.

A COVID

It is not cool, and it is thick with mosquitoes.

Letter from India: 'Trucks carrying oxygen cylinders are being waylaid and looted'

There must be an interval of four or five months before you hear more of us, after you get this; but remember, for two whole months we shall be on the sea, and then in Christian charity you will write.

Letter from India: 'Trucks carrying oxygen cylinders are being waylaid and looted'

Amphitrite, a very tall sailor, looked quite handsome in one of Wright's gowns and my cap.

O'Keeffe's Letters From India

If not, I must eat Chance on Wednesday, for fear other people should want him the next week. I shall never forget that ride. The last night I was so ill that I was obliged to send for George to come and carry me on deck, where, as it was quite dark and the poop quite deserted, I might be as ill as I liked.

O'Keeffe's Letters From India

We had a delicious drive home.

Affectionately, Rachel: Letters from India, 1860

There are myriads of fireflies and paroquets here — beautiful! Over the 20 years that we studied the site, we saw Hampi Bazaar return to life. We all went out on the elephants as soon as we arrived: George and I, — and Fanny — two on each.

Letters from India.

PAGE 1 3 6 7 14 16 23 32 37 41 43 49 54 55 57 70 78 82 89 96 119 129 133 145 146 147 161 165 169 175 178 183 185 191 193 200
204 211 224 228 230 232 236 241 242 245 250 253 262 264 271 276 281 287 292 298 301 306 310 317 320 322 326 333 340 342

LETTERS FROM INDIA. George must find out that he can Governor-General here, as well as at Calcutta. When we go up the country, I shall send you something really pretty, to show what our subjects can do.

Related Books

- De pierres et de couleurs - vie et mort des maisons du vieux Beyrouth
- Mining industry of Southern Rhodesia - 1961
- Indikatornye metody izucheniia neftegazonosnykh plastov
- Who are the homeless? What is homelessness? - the politics of defining and emerging policy
- United States administration of its international economic affairs.