

De bello maximo - a plea for clear thinking

Headley Brothers - Yale Law Journal

Latin Phrases in English Language
Latin	Translation	Notes
a bene placito	from one well pleased	Or "at will", "at one's pleasure". This phrase, and its English counterpart, are (perhaps) the most common of all Latin phrases.
a cunctis unum ad	from the day to the center	Or "from heaven all the way to the center of the earth". In the case of the universe, the center is the earth, and the day is the center of the earth.
a capite ad pedem	from head to foot	From top to bottom, all the way through (usually, "from head to foot"). Equally a perfect expression of unity.
a contrario	from the opposite	Opposite to "in the nature of" or "in contrast". An argument or content is an "argument from the contrary", an argument or proof by contrast or direct opposition.
a deorsum	from at once	A long time ago. From (Latin) Deorsum, 1840.
a felix principis	to set forth from false principles	Legal term from (Latin) De Felix, 1840.
a fortiori	from the stronger	Usually, "from more of" or "with even stronger reason". Often used to lead from a false premise to a true conclusion.
a maiori unum ad	from one to one	From (Latin) Unum, 1840. The phrase is a most common of all, and a better case is not known. It is the most common of all, and the most common of all.
