

Austrian winter field peas in Oregon

Agricultural Experiment Station, Oregon State Agricultural College - Austrian Winter Pea

Description: -

-

Peas -- Oregon.Austrian winter field peas in Oregon

-

Station bulletin (Oregon State Agricultural College. Agricultural Experiment Station) -- 286.

Station bulletin / Oregon Agricultural College Experiment Station -- 286.Austrian winter field peas in Oregon

Notes: Cover title.

This edition was published in 1931

Filesize: 64.97 MB

Tags: #Austrian #Winter #Pea

Windham Winter Pea

Plant Austrian winter pea seeds in well-prepared soil at a rate of 2 ½ to 3 pounds 1 to 1. It contains an average vine length of nearly 2 meters. Plant seeds directly in the soil as soon as the ground has thawed, sometime late February to March; young plants have some frost resistance.

Austrian Winter Pea Information

The foliage is pale green, and the flowers are colored, usually purple, pink or reddish. The winter peas in the experiment produced 96 lb.

Austrian Winter Pea Information

Pods and seeds vary in size and edibility with variety as well as harvesting times; they are roughly divided into shelling peas garden peas that are harvested when the seeds are almost or completely mature and edible-pod peas snow peas and sugar snap peas that are harvested when the pods and seeds are young and not fully mature.

Administrative Report Or Publication

The foliage is pale green, and the flowers are colored, usually purple, pink or reddish.

Austrian Winter Pea Seed

Austrian Winter Peas can also be grown spring-seeded as a summer annual. Windham is a white flowering tannin-free pea, making it sweeter than Austrian-type peas. It also has large stipules up to 4 in long that hug the stems.

Related Books

- Gu shi xin bian yan jiu zi liao
- Who owns womens bodies? - a travelling art exhibition
- One hundred and one poems of romance
- Excavations at Rhuddlan, Clwyd - 1969-73 Mesolithic to Medieval
- Bajo la piel del papel - aportes para la animación a la lectura en los adolescentes