The region was conquered by between 706 and 715 and loosely held by the Umayyads from 715 to 738. They also exposed Crusaders to Islamic literature, science and technology—exposure that would have a lasting effect on European intellectual life. We, not minding the derogation or taking away of any part of the authority of so ancient an order, but rather tending the maintenance thereof to the intent, that such that have done commendable service to their prince and country, either in war or in peace, may receive due honor in their lives, we are contented and pleased upon consideration of our right trusty and well beloved Roderic Hawkins of Basing, Captain of Artillery.
