Travel and Tourism Competitiveness Report 2017

By contrast, emerging markets are more export-oriented and driven by tradable sectors. This uneven job growth, combined with disparity in income growth in some parts of the world, has created differing narratives about the benefits of an integrated, global economy.

Employment creation potential, labor skills requirements, and skill gaps for young people: Ghana case study

For example, firms will soon benefit from faster debt resolution due to improved insolvency frameworks and online mediation. However, the result can be job losses because lower-skill, lower-valueadded work is sent abroad to emerging markets, where labor is cheaper.

Digitization for economic growth and job creation: Regional and industry perspectives

Once a company builds a platform, the cost of serving an additional customer or adding a new supplier is close to zero. First, they should create digitization plans for targeted sectors in which they wish to maximize the impact of digitization.

Travel and Tourism Competitiveness Report 2017

Some of the strongest growth in consumption will be in service sectors, such as health, finance, education, transportation, and entertainment. Today, the tourism sector is still suffering from a gap between education and skills and knowledge needs.

Why Countries Need New Job Creation Strategies

ICT jobs were maintained during the period when others laid off staff.

Digitization for economic growth and job creation: Regional and industry perspectives

In many parts of the world, governments are grappling with a vexing puzzle. Establishing an effective business environment, and incentives to foster private and public collaboration and linkages, are important elements to fostering economic success.

Accelerating Growth and Job Creation with a Better Business Environment

Secretary of the Treasury Jacob Lew R listens to Chair of the Federal Reserve Janet Yellen L during a meeting of the Financial Stability Oversight Council May 19, 2015 at the Treasury Department in Washington, DC. ICTs play a catalytic role given their important backward and forward linkages with other sectors. They can support the development of globally competitive knowledge ecosystems by boosting investments in higher education and training for highly skilled professionals in the service sector.
