In business and the military, a relatively high proportion of elites did not attend university, so it is possible that, for these groups, secondary school assumes a greater importance. However, the report also recognizes that some of this is due to grade inflation as this increase in performance is not mirrored by English and Welsh students in international tests, such as PISA BELOW. RATIONALE OF STUDY From the great body of work dedicated to this area, we understand that the transition from HE into the labour market is a complex process and one that requires detailed analysis Monica, Cordite ; Adrian, 2011.

L04 and concepts, while identifying the gaps

Often, faculty particularly struggle with getting inquiries into the admissions funnel which is where central support is desperately needed.
