ACADEMIC FREEDOM IN THEOLOGY TEACHING

The only reason to choose a Catholic college or university instead of a secular or public college at considerably less expense is to expose young adults to serious religious and theological thought, to give them a solid foundation in the development of Christian thought for the last two thousand years, as well as a solid foundation in the understandings of the other world religions that have stood the test of time - Christianity is relatively young when compared to others. But, while providing the foundation, at the university level, the emphasis must be on "how to think" rather than "what to think".

Catholic Colleges 20 Years After 'Ex Corde'

Vatican II was over when I was in college. It is not an attempt to oppose or limit academic freedom, but it is a cry for responsible academic freedom, a cry for teachers to have major Christian concerns towards students and the community of believers.
