The Earth Keepers Solid Waste Management Planning...

How can a collective process be beneficial? To date, Aboriginal involvement in forestry is characterized by a limited economic role in forest development, limited influence over forest management, and an inability to integrate Aboriginal culture and values. It can sustain these types of changes and keep growing.

Representing Aboriginal Self

Guidance The proponent shall consult and utilize relevant Agency policy and guidance on topics to be addressed in the EIS, and liaise with the Agency during the planning and development of the EIS. Footnote 6 Should an MDMER Schedule 2 amendment be required for the project, the proponent is strongly encouraged to include MDMER requirements for an assessment of alternatives for mine waste disposal in the EIS. The communities also possess what most if not all training programs cannot deliver: traditional knowledge.
