A compilation of 53 colour photographs, one of the rare times Kertész used colour film. The unprecedented scope of this collection provides the opportunity to study his more composed, aesthetically structured images alongside his snapshots, which offer a more anecdotal account of Doisneau. As a photographer, Robert Doisneau is known for his ability to infuse images of daily life with poetic nuance that imbued his photojournalism with an enduring popular appeal.

Brassai: Paris by Night

Toward the end of the War, rumors had reached America that Cartier-Bresson had been killed.
