carbon assessments throughout the construction process obligatory. It is of the greatest importance to recognise that the research subject, or an arena of research, has been generated inside the network, and the interest lies in actions, parameters and experiences that are produced in the network and their consequences. For Claudia Wegener, footsteps in soot left after a disastrous fire in a German airport show the emptiness of photographic revelation.

The Dos and Don'ts of Effective Virtual Communication

In general these two macro-level tendencies lead to research dealing with the widely used concepts of globalisation and localisation. Section three turns to issues of representation and becomes more visual in orientation.
