Practical Approaches to Cancer Invasion and Metastases

Even if recurrence of WHO grade II glioma has difficulty to achieve complete resection due to diffuse, multi-focal, or deep located lesion, surgical treatment can be considered to reduce the mass effect and improve neurological symptoms. Current treatments for cancer metastasis are mainly chemotherapy and radiotherapy, though the new generation anti-cancer drugs predominantly neutralizing antibodies for growth factors and small molecule kinase inhibitors do have the effects on cancer metastasis in addition to their effects on cancer growth.

In particular embodiments, the ribonucleoprotein is delivered by way of a polypeptide-based shuttle agent as described in WO2016161516. To achieve maximal safe resection, neuronavigation systems, intraoperative CT, MRI, intraoperative ultrasonography, intraoperative mapping techniques, and fluorescence-guidance with 5-aminolevulinic acid are recommended.
