No one should feel reluctant in the approach to learning software, because no one should feel reluctant to learn.

Differences between CBT and WBT

Increasing flexible hours and locations means that employees are less likely than ever to be physically in the same room. Now is the time for decentralized and distributed learning programs that allow employees to take ownership over their professional development.

Although both CBT and WBT are in demand, yet, WBT gives a greater flexibility of accessing it anywhere, anytime, and on any device such as iPads, smartphones, laptops, etc. On the other hand, if the group has, for example, 500 people, the financial benefits are already significant.

'Just in Time' Web

The WBT training package for new employees can be used repeatedly whenever the company employs a new employee. All of this points to the importance of remote learning programs. From educational institutes to corporates, such training programs are being used everywhere.

What Are The Benefits Of Web Based Training (WBT)?

Luckily, no company has to live an image of installing computer based training development software; there are plenty of web based learning applications to choose from. Training new hires on company policies is often among the responsibilities of human resources HR professionals.

5 Benefits of Web

Traditional training courses take employees away from their jobs for significant amounts of time.

What Are The Benefits Of Web Based Training (WBT)?

This is particularly useful for workers with flexible hours or unusual schedules or those who might have children quarantined at home with them. It is an investment both in terms of actual training costs paying for a VLE and potentially lost revenue from taking employees away from their daily tasks.
